

Graduate Parliamentary Service Officer Testimonial

TRANSCRIPT

Koby

I chose to study a very broad degree at university because I wasn't sure what direction I wanted to build my career in.

That's why the Queensland Parliamentary Service program really stood out to me because of the insane breadth of different areas and activities that I'd have a chance to get involved with.

I started in the corporate and electorate division and in just one rotation, I'd helped deliver training sessions with finance.

I'd worked on tenders and projects with procurement. I've developed forms and recruitment videos with people and culture.

And I've also worked outside my division to help run Youth Parliaments and student activities with education and in the chamber, liaising directly with members of Parliament.

I feel like the work that I'm doing here is meaningful for the organisation, the community and my professional development.

I'm always learning, and the program is tailored to support what I want to achieve, and it's helped me to discover where I want to take my career.

I would highly recommend this program for all graduates of any degree, and the Parliamentary Service really can cater towards anyone.

To discuss the role, please contact our team at graduates@parliament.qld.gov.au.

First Nations applicants can also contact our First Peoples' Liaison Officer, Beryl Friday, or current Graduate Parliamentary Service Officer, Sheree Strauss, at graduates@parliament.qld.gov.au.

www.parliament.qld.gov.au

